

ARREST IMMINENT IN TROY MURDER

GERMANY MAY LOSE LEAGUE SEAT

DISCORD PREVENTS ACCEPTANCE NOW OF GERMAN CANDIDACY

Sweden Adamant On Stand Against Enlargement

By United Press
GENEVA, March 12.—Only
a thread of hope exists today
that Germany may immediately
become a member of the League of Nations with a permanent seat on the council.
Geneva is ready, however,
for a final effort to patch together an agreement which would permit consummation of the Locarno work toward European peace and security.

If that effort fails, Europe's most
ambitious effort to secure herself
against herself would fall, or at least the league would adjourn the German and other candidates for several weeks to permit tempers
to cool and attitudes to alter.

Several socialist delegates to the league today telegraphed Premier Hindler of Sweden urging that Sweden abandon her opposition
to enlargement of the league council.

Foreign Minister Unden of Sweden was the target of arguments
almost all of last night as various mediators sought him to turn from
his intention to vote the election
of any nation but Germany to
council membership at this time.

Unden remained firm. Chancellor
Luther and Foreign Minister
Stresemann of Germany likewise
were unmoved by pleas that they promise in advance to approve the enlargement of the council.

The negotiators of Locarno met
again today in the apartments of Sir Austen Chamberlain but it is
admitted the solution of the council's problem does not lie with
them.

About the only hope today was
based on the remote possibility
that Spain and Brazil might accept
some formula to postponement of
their candidacies to permanent
council membership.

Falling this, adjournment of the council matter may be necessary
to avoid an irrevocable rupture,
within the league.

GENERAL IS FACING SOCIAL OSTRACISM

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Mar. 12.—On
the defensive and facing threats
of social ostracism, General Smedley Butler, returned to his duties in San Diego today as commandant of the Marine post.

The General denied he violated
the hospitality of his retiring predecessor and host, Col. Alexander
Williams, by accusing the latter
of drunkenness following a party
in Butler's honor.

"I just did my duty according
to naval regulations," he said. "The case is similar to hundreds that
have occurred in the past."

"The unfortunate incident which caused my action took place in a public hotel when I was not a
guest of this officer."

CLEVELAND, Mar. 12.—The first
report of the federal grand jury on
the huge alcohol frauds, centering
in the Superior Industrial Alcohol Co., of Cleveland, has been postponed from today to Saturday.
It was learned at the federal
building here.

This is due to the absence of
District Attorney A. E. Bernstein
and his assistant, Miles E. Evans,
who is due to return here from Cincinnati, today. Bernstein and Evans with special intelligence
bureau agent George Goding, say
they have asked about 125 indictments in the alcohol case.

BROTHER SLAYERS WILL NOT RETURN TO OHIO VOLUNTARILY ON CHARGE

By United Press

ALPENA, Mich., March 12.

—Completely reversing themselves, James and Leonard
Lyons, youthful Havana, Ohio,
gunmen, today refused to return to Ohio voluntarily, to answer for the murder of Frank
McGrath, American railway
express company's detective, shot to death when he sought
to arrest the boys at Havana.
The refusal of the boys to return, in the face of their previous decision to return

voluntarily, grew out of their
fear of death in the electric
chair, Sheriff Gregory, who
came here from Norwalk, Ohio,
for the brothers, told the United Press. Gregory and W. S.
McKellip, an agent for the express company, immediately
left for Lansing, the state capital, to obtain Governor A. C.
Groesbeck's signature to ex-
tradition papers.

When the brother's previously signified their willingness to return, Gregory neglected to obtain the Governor's signature, believing the youths were acting in good faith.

Police Chief Douglas Mc-Kenzie, who was shot and
wounded by James when he
attempted to arrest the boys,
was believed out of danger to-
day. James also has confessed
he killed McGrath and has exonerated Leonard of any blame,
police declared.

TARIFF COMMISSION MEMBERS CALLED BEFORE SENATE PROBERS

Investigate Charge Coolidge Used Influence to Cause
Commission To Increase Tariff, Is Said

WASHINGTON, Mar. 12.—Six
members of the United States
before a new senate investment Tariff Commission will be called before the committee next week to tell whether President Coolidge exercised any influence over them in their decisions to increase the tariff.

The entire commission will be witnesses in the far-reaching inquiry into the issue upon which Republicans and Democrats expect to fight out the November
congressional elections.

Vice President Dawes will appoint the five senators to conduct the investigation today or tomorrow after a conference with Republican and Democratic leaders.

Some Democrats want Senator
Thomas J. Walsh, Democrat, Montana, who conducted the Teapot
Dome oil scandals investigation
named to the body of inquiry, so
he can conduct the investigation
from the Democratic angle.

Republican leaders have been unable so far to agree on their candidates, since charges also
have been made against Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, who nominally would be named as chairman of this committee.

At various times charges have
been made in connection with the offer made by Mr. Coolidge to appoint David Lewis, Maryland
Democrat, to the commission if he would give Mr. Coolidge a blanket resignation, effective at any time.

OLD-TIME FIDDLER TEMPERAMENTAL

MARYSVILLE, O., Mar. 12.
(UP)—Suddenly acquired
"artistic temperament" has
taken an important part in the
meteoric rise of Odin G.
Harper, of Jackson Township, Ohio's champion old-
time fiddler.

Harper, who won the state
championship at Cleveland,
has received innumerable offers to play at country
dances for the prices he used to receive when he was merely a "fiddler." He was advised by his manager to reject the offers and angle for
higher pay in vaudeville
work. Booking was obtained
for him this month in Columbus.

But the contract called for
"only" $250 a week and Harper has decided that he ought
to receive $1,000 a week, the
same pay being given Nellie Dunham, Vermont fiddler
brought into prominence by Henry Ford.

Harper is planning to get a
new manager and demand
pay which he feels an "artist"
should receive.

INSANE MAN STAGES FIGHT WITH POLICE BEFORE BEING SHOT

Bullet Enables Capture
After Reign Of Terror

By United Press
TOLEDO, Mar. 12.—After
barricading himself in a
house here, Steve Lashley, 71, said to have gone violently insane, staged a two hour
gun battle with police early
today before he was shot and
captured.

Lashley began his rampage
shortly after midnight, according
to police, first threatening room-
ers in the house and later pursuing a woman and her two small children.

The woman and the children
managed to lock themselves in a
room, Lashley apparently determined to kill them, fired through
the door.

Police were summoned but
when they attempted to gain
entrance to the house, found Lashley in command. He fired
upon them as they advanced.

Repulsed by the man's fire, police withdrew to a distance, held
a conference, then surrounded the house. They advanced steadily,
but two hours elapsed before one
of them shot Lashley, enabling
them to capture him.

Wets and Drys Start
New Moves As Issue
Comes to Front

By United Press
WASHINGTON, March 12.—Prohibition may become a real national issue by the time of the 1928 presidential elections.

But, according to wet and dry
leaders in congress interviewed by
the United Press today, there is
no possibility that the fall senatorial and congressional elections
will be fought on that issue except
in local instances.

In Illinois, the issue arises in the senatorial fight since George Brennan, Democrat, is running on a
wet platform. In Pennsylvania, it
will undoubtedly play a part in the coming primaries since William S.
Vare is expected to run as an avowed wet for the Republican senatorial nomination.

That the political situation now
in the trail of much agitation
throughout the country by newspaper polls, registering heavy wet
sentiment, but condemned by dries
as inaccurate barometers.

Meanwhile, in the national campaign against Volstead violations,
two developments came to the fore,
namely:

1.—Plans were made for increasing the border patrol strength to
better compete with rum smugglers.

2.—Prohibition department let it
be known it was not happy over dry administrators' achievements in Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, District of Columbia, North and South Carolina and Georgia, and it suggested some
heads might fall if the remaining
month of trial for new administrators did not produce better results.

On the other hand the wets started two important moves. These are:

1.—The wet bloc in the house organized a "vigilance committee," of about nine members with orders
to keep a constant "patrol" force
on duty on the floor so wet propaganda can be scattered in speeches
virtually daily.

2.—The same bloc devised a
"publicity" scheme whereby by
through introduction of novel bills,
newspapers would be compelled to
print news of the wets drive.

There was no mistaking the happiness of wets in congress over the
newspaper polls.

MEXICAN POLICE TO DEPORT MINISTER

MEXICO CITY, Mar. 12.—The Rev. John G. Dale, an American minister, is being hurried today by Mexican police, who desire to deport him, according to a dispatch received from Tampico.

Dale is accused of officiating in a Baptist Church in violation of article 130 of the Mexican constitution which forbids foreigners holding religious office.

Police Judge Francisco Mona
ordered the officers to find Dale.

DRY LEADERS WILL CALL ON PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Mar. 12.—Members of the Anti-Saloon executive committee sitting in secret council here the past few days have an appointment to see President
Coolidge for five minutes today.

The impression was left that it
was largely a "courtesy call" that
had been arranged, but the appointment caused considerable
talk here in the light of renewed
wet-dry fighting.

CHURCH DESTROYED

AKRON, O., Mar. 12.—Steps
will be taken immediately to rebuild the Grace Reformed Church

ing the night, with a loss es-

was erected in 1881 and was known as "the little church

The edifice was situated in the

RIGHTMIRE SERVES FRIDAY, MARCH 19, AT FIRST CONVOCATION

One Hundred and Sixty Candidates For Degrees

By United Press
COLUMBUS, O., March 12.—
President George W. Rightmire, will officiate at his first convocation March 19, when a class of 160
students will be candidates for degrees and certificates at the annual midwinter convocation of Ohio State University.

The exercises will mark the end of the third quarter of the academically year and will usher in President Rightmire's first official graduation address.

Professor Henry Russell Spencer,
chairman of the department of political science here, will give the convocation address. His selection followed the University custom of having outstanding members of the faculty as the principal speakers
at the summer, autumn and winter convocations.

The graduate school heads the list of candidates with thirty-two of whom seek the degree of doctor of philosophy, the highest honor at the University. All but three of the University's eleven colleges are represented in the class.

Three students are potential seekers of two degrees each.
Charles F. Smoot, Troy, is a candidate for the degree of doctor of medicine and bachelor of science.
Erwin E. Naujoks, Milwaukee, Wis., and Robert G. Eari, Columbus, are both completing work for the degree of bachelor of arts in education and bachelor of arts.

A lone girl, Helen A. Schuenen, of Cleveland, is among the twenty-two candidates for the degree of bachelor of science in business administration.

The exercises will be held in the University chapel.

BUTLER ACTION WAS SOCIAL ERROR

NEW YORK, Mar. 12.—General Smedley Butler made at least a social error, Emily
Post, author of recognized authority on etiquette believes.

In society when a host
serves cocktails and it isn't
the guest's place to stand up,
say "good night" and leave.
Seldom is it proper to have
your host arrested, according
to Miss Post.

"There is a sacred relationship between the guest and
the host," the etiquette authority told the United Press.

"In such a case the guest
should show his disapproval
by leaving."

However, the otherwise
perfectly outrageous conduct of General Butler may be excused by the fact that he was
a superior officer and military
duties outweighed those of the social world.

Members of the Jamestown Masonic Lodge are said to have dropped the search at least temporarily and no new developments are reported.

By United Press
TROY, O., March 12.—Lid
on the mystery surrounding the murder of Mrs. Frances Drake Nesbitt, who was found slain in the bathtub at her home here three weeks ago,
was expected to be pried off
this afternoon when an arrest
in the case was expected by
those in close touch.

Jacob Nesbitt, husband of the slain woman, was taken to the Nesbitt home this afternoon and the stage was set for the clearing away
of clouds surrounding the case
since it started the country three weeks ago.

Chances in the investigation has been expected for more than twenty-four hours. Officials prominent in the inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the death of the former woman tennis champion of Ohio State University, admitted today that the crucial point
of the probe had been reached.

Statements given by Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss Brown, Columbus,
at the outset of the investigation
are regarded as being highly important by the investigators. Statements were taken from Mr. Brown
more than a week ago when authorities visited the couple at Columbus and obtained a formal account of what occurred at the residence of the Nesbitts the night
they were guests there twenty-four hours before Mrs. Nesbitt was found slain.

COLONEL COOLIDGE SLEEPS BUT LITTLE

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Mar. 12.—

DOUBLE EDUCATION
STANDARD RAPPED
AT BOARD MEETING

Criticism of a double standard of education, one for city and another for the country, featured address of H. C. Aultman, county school superintendent, at the annual meeting of boards of education of the county, in assembly room, Court House, Wednesday.

Practice of parents to leave the important matter of religious education of their children to school instructors was rapped by Charles Cline, Bowersville, in a talk featuring discussion of the topic of religious education. He said that no board of education or parent-teacher association has a right to demand of the teacher what is not being done in the home for the child, by way of religious training. Horace Ankeney, Beaver Creek, in a talk along this line, made a plea for the return of the teaching of substantial things of life in the home.

Educators decided that religious training in the school cannot be made uniform and should be left to the community. Each rural school in Greene County has a copy of the Ten Commandments framed and hung on the wall.

Maintenance of high standards of teachers in Greene County was the topic of several speakers. This county has the second highest standard for teachers of any county in Ohio.

Superintendent Aultman pointed out that half the county is centralized. There are ten village and rural high schools with 800 students and 4,700 pupils attending high and grade schools.

Interest in the Greene County Library among people of the county was urged by Miss Jean B. Elwell, Mrs. E. R. Bryant and Miss Bertha Trishin of the library board and W. B. Bryson, president of the Greene County Farm Bureau. Mrs. Bryant gave details of an essay contest which the board will inaugurate among students of the county.

Mrs. Ola P. Gunkle of the state auditing department explained the new budget law.

The Theatre

R. D. MacLean is now playing the part of Fray Junipero Serra, in the "Mission Play," at San Gabriel, Calif., now in its fifteenth year.

People who have seen the play with Frederick Warde in the eading role will probably never forget the interpretation this fine old monarch of the stage, brought to the part of the founder of the Mission.

Warde was succeeded by Monroe which settings are permanently arranged on a revolving stage.

In many ways the "Mission Play" is comparable to the "Passion Play" of Oberammergau. It is the story of the trials of the missionaries in the founding of Christianity among the Indians of Southern California. Forerunners of that civilization that was later to make it one of the greatest states.

Its theme is historical entirely. The presentation is preceded by a prologue in pantomime, symbolizing the three great epochs of the play as follows: 1. The Savage, sensing the approach of his white conquerors. 2. Spectre of faded military glory of the Spanish conquest. 3. Spirit of the everlasting faith in the cross of Christ.

Act 1 is of the founding of the Mission, the scene laid on the shores of the Bay of San Diego and the time the year 1769. Act 2 is of the Missions in their glory, the place of the Mission of San Carlos de Carmel, near Monterey, Calif., and the time 1784. Act 3 is the Missions in ruins, and the scene is the ruined Mission of San Juan Capistrano, the time, 1847. A large cast presents the play.

Motion picture stars who have suffered from "swelled head" are the subject of an interesting article by Gladys Hall, in the recent issue of the "Movie" Magazine.

"Swelled head is commonly supposed to afflict its victims with these symptoms—Ritzy, high hatness, snobbishness," says Miss Hall. "It doesn't make a particle of difference how you describe stars with this malady. The only thing that saves them is a speedy recovery. No one has ever been great enough to survive the inferior pictures that result," she continues.

Pola Negri had an attack when she first arrived upon these democratic shores. Gloria Swanson may have contracted it. Her last pictures haven't been up to scratch. That is a symptom.

Valentino's attack of "swell head" wasn't helped any by the fact that his "medical advisors" were not the wisest, according to Miss Hall. It attacked Glenn Hunter with all four fangs. Glenn was very young, he had had a hard time. Success had come quickly.

Nazimova was a drastic case. A few years ago there was no more brilliant artist on our horizon. "The malady strikes deep roots."

XVIII—UNWELCOME REVELATIONS

MARY was frightenedly upset by Celia's rage. Of course, she shouldn't have read that card—but even if she had meant to read it, she could have excused herself because it was on the floor with scraps of paper that had missed the waste basket, that evidently were meant to be thrown away.

Celia had said such dreadful things, had accused her of prying into private matters, of being a spy, of being jealous—accusations that Mary couldn't understand. Why in the world should she be jealous of Celia, she asked herself. And what would she do?

As she sat by the bedroom window, staring at the brick wall of the house next door, she asked herself why Celia hadn't just come out and told her that that Chinese lounging suit was a gift from her brother. Unless—well, evidently her brother hadn't given it to her.

Celia came in later, and began changing her clothes. When she had finished she came stiffly over to Mary.

"Since we have to live together, we might as well be on good terms," she said. "I'll forgive you, but next time you see cards with writing on—"

"Oh Celia, I didn't mean to read it," Mary protested. "And when I did, I just thought probably when your brother sent you that suit he wrote on that card—"

"Oh—why—" Celia looked as if she had heard good news. After a moment she patted Mary on the shoulder, gently.

"That's exactly what did happen," she exclaimed. "He'd been horrid about not writing, and he knew I wanted one of those suits, so he sent me that suit I had on last night, and asked me to forgive him. I'm sorry I was so horrid, but you see, I'm used to living with just my brother and the servants—I didn't realize—"

Queer, how happy she was all of a sudden!

"I'm going out—have an engagement for the afternoon," she told Mary, turning to go. "I don't know when I'll be in—not till late, probably. I'm sorry, Mary, about my nasty temper." And she smiled sweetly and slammed the door behind her.

Mary sat there in the window trying hard to be convinced. Some how Celia was so funny, the way she acted about things. Why hadn't she said that about her brother in the first place—if it were true!

"I'm a suspicious cat!" she told herself. But she couldn't help it if she was. Celia wasn't telling the truth about that suit—anyone could see that.

"Well, I'm not responsible for her; she doesn't have to tell me where she gets things," Mary went on, rising at last and going back to the living-room. "She needn't tell me who gave it to her if she doesn't want to."

It had begun to rain, a hard, driving rain; Mary settled down in the big chair with a library book, glad that she need not go out. She had barely opened her book when the telephone bell rang on the first floor, and a few moments later came the away locomotive as to stop thinking about Celia and Stanley Blake. That Chinese suit—and the card in his writing, saying, "Wear it and forgive me"—and the way Celia had looked when she came in last night—probably she'd quarrelled with him, and he'd taken that way of making up with her.

Hilda, unmistakable fact. Mary was too bright a girl not to realize them for what they were. She tried to be kind, tried to remind herself that circumstantial evidence wasn't worth anything, but the very tone of Stanley's voice when he thought he was talking to Celia on the phone spoke louder than anything else against him.

And Celia's panic over the card—and Mary's explanation, that she had grabbed at so suddenly—oh, it all fitted together into a terrible pattern.

Mary told herself, "I won't!" Mary told herself. She put on her hat and coat and started out through the rain to her aunt's house, far across the city. She'd go out there, and see people who didn't do such things.

It was a long ride, and a tiresome one. She was glad to reach the apartment-house at last. But none of the family was at home. Mary was just wondering what to do when she thought of Hilda Lewis, who lived upstairs. She could run up and see Hilda.

But Hilda was just getting ready to go out herself. "Oh Mary, I'm so glad you're here," she cried. "I'm going out, and I've nobody to leave with. Junior, Jim's out of town. Do be a darling and stay with the baby, won't you?"

Mary said she would, and Hilda talked on, as she combed her hair and rouged her lips.

"Queer, who's taking me to dinner," she said, laughing cooly. "An old friend of yours—none other than Pat Hamilton, my child!"

Pat Hamilton, Mary wished with all her heart that she hadn't come

Important to Chicken Raisers!
A person CAN make money in Chickens if they ABSOLUTE-LY REFUSE TO EXPERIMENT.
Geo. H. Lee, for some 40 years, has done all the experimenting necessary and his line of PREVENTIVES and Remedies, plus his BOOK, makes the greenest amateur a SUCCESS from the START! We honestly believe this. We carry this equipment—ALL of it, and we believe you get the facts about Geo. H. Lee, what he has to say—even if you intend raising only a FEW chickens this year!

Nearly as Popular As Candy Crabs!
It's this new Morse Home Style package at 69c, we just got in! The Chocolate coverings are crispy, dark and full flavored. The centers are creamy or hard or flaky in JUST THE WAY you expect a $1.50 Candy to be! Each piece is individually wrapped too. The Candy Crabs are going to have some REAL competition!

Coughing as a Fine Art!
It has never been really developed to any great degree, the trouble being that persons who allowed a cough to "hang on" long enuf to really get expert didn't LIVE LONG ENUF to become FAMOUS! Which fact seems a good reason for you to come right in here NOW and get at least ONE good Cough Remedy for your Medicine Chest!

I Was Told To Make This FULLA "PUNCH!"
Emmett Hardy, one of the boys here in the store, saw me trying to write this weekly message and he pipes up "Maker fulla pep this week, Mr. Sayre; Make 'em sit up and take notice! Pack 'em in tight here so I can practice waiting on four people at once!"

So now that you readers understand how Emmett feels about it, why—I'll do my doggondest to put some punch into this advertisement.

If I told you about the SERVICE we work so hard to give, would THAT carry a PUNCH? Or maybe I'd better tell you what CARE we exercise in selecting the BEST of everything before we offer it to you folks! How's THAT for PUNCH?

Would the fact that we BACK UP every article sold in this store with OUR GUARANTEE make you hustle in here and snap at the cash register—trying to poke money into it?

Darned if it isn't HARD to put PUNCH in talk like this—Maybe I'd better quit trying to get so heavy and just leave OUT THE PUNCH and say very gravely: "We'd like your trade and we're prepared to go to all decent lengths not only to GET it but to KEEP it."

DOC. SAYRE.

VINEGAR
While on the subject of PUNCH wotta you folks out front think of the VINEGAR idea! Did you notice how the Congressmen got all excited and insisted to a man that the recipe for making it into Alcohol be put in THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORDS! Can't tell ME that the Congressional Records would be "dry reading" Not from NOW ON anyway! And, gosh what a hop the price of Vinegar would take! Yea, boy! Probably be a crime to grow apples after this.

"Mystikum"
Many women will NOT like this new Perfume. Certainly its very, very different and we bought rather timidly. Might be a good idea to ask for a dash of it just to see whether it pleases you or not. It's had an enormous sale in the EAST!

Just a Small Ad!
It's just a LEETLE too early to get excited about KODAKS and FILMS and FINISHING, so will drop the subject for a week or so!

They Sure Are Leaving Here!
In spite of the large number of Shaffer's Life Time Pens we have bought since November, we had to get in a new lot last week! And they're beauties too. The fact that they're UNBREAKABLE and are guaranteed for LIFE is what makes them so popular.

Police and Fountain News!
Said a Lemon Ice to a big Limeade:
"I wonder how this VINEGAR'S made!
From what I READ it packs a PUNCH
Much stronger than our Soda bunch!"
And the Limeade sadly shook its head:
"It looks that way from what I've read;
But you can't believe just ALL you hear—
So I don't think we've much to fear!"

Tanlac builds strong bodies

"Was so troubled with chronic indigestion, nervousness, headaches and loss of sleep I became almost a physical wreck. Tanlac brought a remarkable improvement and soon was back in pink of condition." Ben Romano, 259 S. Main St., Akron, O.

There's nothing like Tanlac to purify the blood, put the stomach and liver in working order and build up a run-down body. Millions of men and women have been benefited by this great tonic and builder that is compounded after the famous Tanlac formula from roots, barks and herbs. If you are nervous, suffer from indigestion, have rheumatism, torpid liver, buy a bottle of Tanlac at your drug store today. See how you start to improve right from the first. Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation.

with additional sections providing for observance of the alternating automatic traffic control lights at Main and Detroit Sts., empowering the city manager to furnish police with tags to cite motorists into court for traffic violations, and a provision that police keep a record of all accidents witnessed or investigated. Commissioners also made provisions in the traffic ordinance for elimination of Market St., as a main thoroughfare in contrast with the former ordinance. Police orders will be authorized by which stop signs may be erected at designated intersections. State law made clear the signs must be erected at least 100 feet back of the main thoroughfare.

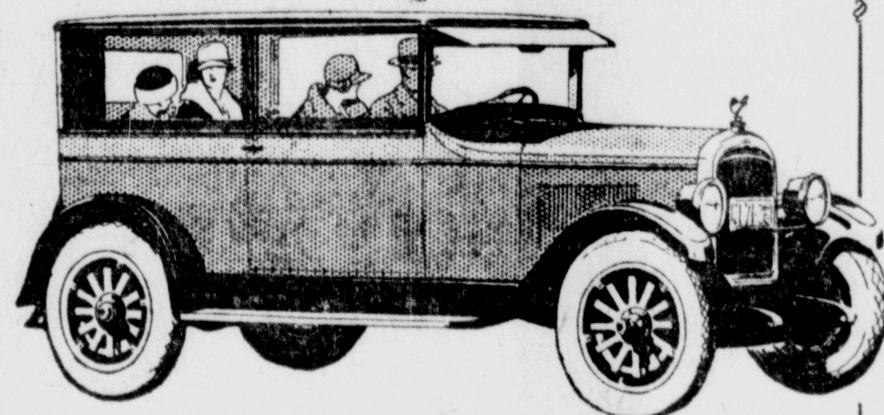

Under the new regulations, better traffic enforcement is assured, it is believed. Second ordinance regulating billiard parlors, pool rooms and bowling alleys, provides these business places shall remain closed from 11 p. m. to 6 a. m. on week days except on Saturday when the closing time is 12 midnight to 6 a. m. It also provides for removal of all screens, blinds or other obstructions which obscure a clear view of the interior by passersby on the street. This measure supercedes an old ordinance regulating saloons which provided for a 10 p. m. closing order. Favorable action on the third ordinance, gives the Pennsylvania Railroad the right to construct and maintain a switch track over Cincinnati Avenue on the south side of the main tracks.

THE GUMPS—THE DROOPING BUTTERFLY

MARCH 22, 1923

1,000,000

DECEMBER 16, 1925

1,500,000

On March 22, 1923, Buick celebrated the building of the millionth Buick. Approximately eighteen years were consumed in the accomplishment.

On December 16, 1925, Buick reached the million and a half mark. A million Buicks in eighteen years—the next half million in two years and nine months.

At the present time, public demand calls for more than 20,000 Buicks every month. This means the next half million in the hands of Buick owners, within two years.

These bare figures tell a graphic story of Buick's continuous advance in public regard. The great acceleration of demand, at the present time, speaks strongly of the increased value and desirability in the Better Buick.

Leadership belongs to Buick because a nation familiar with many motor cars has given it to Buick.

The American public wants "finer transportation at lower cost", and Buick provides it!

POVERTY DECREASES

GOVERNMENT statistics were unnecessary to show that poverty is rapidly decreasing in the United States. For a dozen years it has been apparent and the government now proves it on paper showing there are 78,000 persons in the Almshouse of the country this year compared with 84,000 in 1910.

What a contrast this nation provides with the others of the world. Throughout Europe the poorhouses, where they have them, are full to overflowing and millions more people are receiving unemployment pensions. England has a large almshouse population. Everywhere in Europe and Asia poverty is said to be increasing. Of course Africa, South America, Central America and the Orient have their history-old condition of poverty under which the lower classes, numbering into the millions of people, are periodically in need of government sustenance.

There are several explanations for the decline of poverty and public dependence in this country. First among them is that the American people are opposed to paternalism. Able-bodied men and women who do not work do not eat in the United States, unless they steal. Secondly, there is inculcated into the American people the desire to work and the ambition to be independent. Another is that the idler is abhorred by society.

POLAR EXPLORATION

FOUR different expeditions into the North Polar regions will be launched this year and it is probable a still greater number will set forth in 1927, making the top of the world the most explored part of the globe and showing that the many past explorations have but increased its fascination.

The Norwegian explorer, Martens, has already established a base on Franz Josef Land for a dash to the pole with automotives sledges and under French sponsorship.

Aeronautical expeditions into the land of ice are planned by Captain Roald Amundsen with Lincoln Ellsworth, Captain George H. Wilkins, and Australian, and Commander Byrd, of the United States Navy, who was with the Macmillan Arctic expedition last year.

Amundsen and Ellsworth failed to reach the pole last spring with two planes but will make a second attempt by air, this time using a semi-rigid dirigible of Italian construction. The expedition will probably "jump off" from Spitzbergen, next month.

Point Barrow, Alaska, will be the base for the Detroit-Arctic Expedition of the Detroit Aviation Society and American Geographical Society under the command of Captain Wilkins. The object of this venture is to ascertain if land lies between Alaska and the pole, if no land is found, to make a non-stop flight over the pole to Spitzbergen.

Commander Byrd hopes to get within 400 miles of the North Pole with the Shipping Board's steamer Chantier and then make the final hop by plane. He wants to reach the pole and explore the surrounding regions.

Here are four enterprises which promise a whole year's supply of thrills and adventure for the on-looking public, which will await them with almost as great impatience and excitement as will the explorers themselves.

BUYING LIBERTY BONDS

SECRETARY MELLON, a few days ago, announced an offer to purchase Third Liberty Loan bonds to the amount of $100,000,000 directly from the owners. The advantage of this plan, it is pointed out, to government and seller, is that brokerage fees will be eliminated from the transaction.

These bonds, which mature in 1928, are now quoted slightly above 101 and doubtless the government will pay about the market price for them, since that would be the natural price for holders to fix in tendering their securities to the banks or bond dealers designated by the government as its agents. Payment, it is announced, will be made on March 23, after the first collection under the new income tax law.

That the government, in addition to meeting its maturing obligations, is able to cancel $100,000,000 of its indebtedness which does not mature for two years is evidence of the gratifying condition of the federal treasury, under the able supervision of Secretary Mellon.

It is because of the fact that President Coolidge has in his cabinet, at the head of the Treasury Department, a man of the ability of Secretary Mellon that the country is making the progress it is toward liquidating the World War debt, and keeping within the budget that is prescribed by the Budget Committee.

Of course considerable money is coming in from the foreign loans and this revenue will be largely increased as time goes on. The interest charges for which American taxpayers are responsible are being steadily cut down and, with reasonable public economy, the federal tax burden will become steadily lighter.

Attacks upon Secretary Mellon on one ground or another are rather frequent, but no one can consistently declare that he is not attending to his main job in a masterful manner.

MAKING OATMEAL BREAD

"Please tell me how to make oatmeal bread," writes a bride reader, "and please be sure to explain even the most ordinary process, for I don't know one thing about cooking. I am always so pleased when you give measurements of pans and tell how high things must rise in the pans, et cetera. It helps a beginner."

I am glad that my "just how" directions are found helpful by inexperienced housekeepers. Here is my way of making oatmeal bread, and I hope I shall be specific enough in my directions:

Oatmeal Bread: I take the largest yellow crockery bowl I own. To be exact, mine measures 12 inches in diameter across the top. Into this I put three cups of boiling-hot water, one cup of molasses, one tablespoon of salt and two cups of dry, uncooked oatmeal (the long-cooking kind, not the quickly prepared kind).

I let the bowl alone for two hours. For it takes about that length of time for the boiling water to cool to the tepid stage. And it must be at the tepid stage, before you add the yeast to it—otherwise it may scald the yeast and dissolve one cake of compressed and spoil the bread. At the end of the two hours of cooling, I yeast in one-half cup of additional boiling water, then stir this into the big bowl. After mixing well, I add five level cups of ordinary white bread flour. This will form a stiff dough.

Now grease two bread pans with butter. My two pans both measure eight and one-half inches long on the bottom, four and three-quarters inches wide on the bottom, and have slightly flaring sides, which are three and one-quarter inches high. I scrape the dough into these two pans, an equal portion in each; you will find that the mixture will rise a little over one inch in the pans. I place the two pans on a chair in my dining room near a radiator, cover them with clean linen cloths, and leave overnight. In the morning the dough has risen to less than one inch from the tops of the pans.

I bake the bread at once. For this kind of bread does not need to be raised twice. Also it is not necessary to knead it. To be exact, I mix this bread at seven o'clock in the evening, let cool till nine, then put it in the pans as directed above. In the morning, at eight o'clock (after my breakfast), I bake it for one hour in a moderate oven, with

NEW THINGS

Not everybody can stand the new things of life, any more than he can stand sudden success.

But, as a matter of fact, it is the new things that keep life bubbling with interest. Not everyone can stand them, and yet not everyone lives. Many just drift along like the broken branches that go with the current of a stream.

We have heard about the new broom that sweeps so well. New things always have an attractiveness that old things do not. And yet we love the old things! There is a speculative interest about new things that is absent in old things. You meet a new friend. You think of all he will be to you; perhaps he carries about within him many of the dreams that you had for your last friend, but which are concealed in him and may come out in acquaintance and companionship.

Everyone loves the unexpected. We all like surprises. New things stimulate and arouse us to a higher pitch of enthusiasm.

But the best about new things is that we learn from them, add to our accumulated knowledge and broaden our horizon of thought along all lines.

I came across, the other day, this line: "The dull ache of the Every Day." The ache that so few are able to tell, to explain, to do away with. The ache that centres mostly in the heart, sacred, so difficult for anyone outside the one who has it to understand.

New things help out the one with this ache. A journey, strange and interesting people, contrasting environments, books, something out of the ordinary in some way always freshens and renews us all.

The greatest sermons are no preached in churches. You find them in life itself, as Richard King so well says.

We must keep going back and into ourselves in order to find out about ourselves.

MEMORY

Walking God's Acres on a summer's day
I stopped before a shaft of marble tall.
"Rich men," thought I, "are favored after all,
In splendor and in luxury sleeps their clay;
From earth their memory does not pass away.
While round about the poor, 'neath markers small,
Sleep in oblivion, seldom seen at all."
And then it seemed I heard the great man say:
"Ev'ny me not this monument of stone,
Look to that modest grave across the way.
His memory by those simple flowers is shown,
Placed there by loving hands but yesterday.
Still come the living to his humble plot,
I sleep 'neath marble, but I am forgot."

MODISH MITZI—The Goofy Has A Will-Of His Own By JAY V. JAY

The Goofy feels that it is time to exert his will—you know, the will that should be developed to its highest power—so he has decided not to see Mitzi. He is taking a last look at her picture before he turns it to the wall. It takes a great deal of will power.

The Goofy thinks he will go to all the places that Mitzi is not likely to be—the public library, for instance. But it just happened that Mitzi had been going to review some costume designs. The Goofy sees her in her new spring coat of charmeen, with printed silk blouse.

Mitzi is teasing the Goofy about where he's been lately, and won't he eat dinner with her. "Well, where are you eating?" questions the Goofy. It is absolutely not in his power—ever, anytime,—to refuse Mitzi. He may have read 16 books on the subject but not one word but "yes" occurs to him.

The Goofy decides to buy a car—he won't see Mitzi in the showroom. But he does, for Mitzi has decided that Dad should buy a nice green car for spring. Green is so popular. Besides, she even wears the caps and the close-fitting hat to match it.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL
AT THE AGE OF 83

Old Folks Need
a Mild Laxative
—Not a "Physic"

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically constipated. It never grips, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.—Adv.

Serious Talk!

This is the time—RIGHT NOW—to do a lot of real THINKING on Spring Farm work. The way you plan NOW, the decisions you reach NOW are going to show later in your BANK ACCOUNT when the harvests are in! For it IS A FACT that you "harvest" as you "sow" and it costs just as much to harvest a poorly tilled acre as it does a properly tilled acre. What you GET from that acre is measured by how you treat it in the spring—NOW! I'm telling you nothing you don't know already and my reasons for talking about it now is to HURRY your decisions ESPECIALLY ON THE TRACTOR QUESTION!

A McCormick-Deering TRACTOR with plow is NOT AN EXPENSE. If you could hire a MAN at twice regular wages to do do FOUR TIMES the work, certainly you'd have that bird on your payroll sudden!

A McCormick-Deering tractor earns you MORE than that—and the tractor won't QUIT in the middle of the season either!

However, what I started out to say was that I sure would like to have check up what you think you are going to need this spring and let either Beal or myself go over the list with you on price and delivery, or there's certainly going to be some rush a bit later on.

Yours very truly,
WM. B. McALLISTER, Gen. Mgr.

The City of Xenia.

The Water and Service Department bought from us a new 1 ton International Harvester Truck last week for use here. We are very pleased at this gesture of confidence in this product we represent and the bosoms of our Sales Department swell gently and fully at the distinction.

Mr. Ritenour, of Cedarville,
Was Asked a Question

And right below here is printed his ANSWER. It was such a concise, sensible and COMPLETE reply that we feel it is a darn sight BETTER advertisement than we could figure out ourselves.

"RITENOUR'S EXCHANGE"
R. C. Ritenour, Prop.

Coal, Grain, Fords, High Grade Oils and Greases.
Cedarville, Ohio, 2-23-1926
The Greene County Hardware Co.,
Xenia, Ohio:
Gentlemen:

In reply to the question of why I bought an International Truck, I will briefly state that after careful investigation and consideration, I found these trucks were giving general satisfaction and long, inexpensive service. This, together with the fact that they are produced and backed up by a concern as reliable as the International Harvester Co., with its service system, places a prospective purchaser in a position to decide quickly what to buy.

Am much pleased with my truck and think I made the right decision when I decided on an International.

Very truly yours,
R. C. RITENOUR.

The Sutton Twins!

In spite of all efforts to corner one of em to get a little dope on the subject of Overlands, Willys-Knights and Studebaker nothing could be done. They claim that if these cars get any more popular than they are at present, it will be necessary to buy a couple new pens to write orders! And Sayre's just got in a new bunch of Schaeffer's Life Times.

Shorly

Mack instructed me to keep my lip outta this ad this week, as he says Spring is a darn important time to farmers and that if I go to rarin' around and shootin' off what he calls my "trap" it will interfere with "straight thinking". What I said to Mack and what he said back to me cannot be published here on acct. of Beeler, the ad man, refusing to allow such remarks to be put in the paper. I asked Beeler if I could tell you folks where I told Mack to go and Beeler wouldn't even allow that to be printed. Hutch and Beal gimme their sympathy, which is the only kind words I've had for a week.

MOVIE STUDIOS DEVELOP OWN ARGOT WITH HUNDREDS OF COINED WORDS

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 11.—"Hey there, you angels, shift those ash-cans to the right."
"Switch those broads and get that baby off the prop-wagon over on this lens louse!"
"Cut-get your gobos lined and hang an ear while we strike."
Unless translated, the foregoing movie lingo means nothing to the layman. In the film studios, it is the common vernacular of the directors, engineering the making of a movie.

Like other professions, the film industry has evolved its own vocabulary. More than 300 words have been coined and come into general usage at the film plants.

It would require a special dictionary to acquaint an inexperienced screen player with the lingo of the directors. Foreign film stars who come to Hollywood learn the studio slang before they learn English, and a test of a player's ability is partially determined by his capacity to understand and follow the director.

Allan Dawn, veteran Paramount director, compiled the following a selected list of studio slang-words for the United Press.

Angels—electricians.
Ash-cans—special spotlights.
Broad—A twin-arc klieg light.
Baby—A small spotlight.

Prop-wagon—Cabinet, mounted on wheels, in which propman carries thousand-odd and ends of articles which may be called into use on a set.

Lens Louse—An actor who is always forcing his face into the camera lens.

Gobo—A black oblong composition board, with a hole in the center, hung on a klieg light to prevent light from directly reaching the camera lens.

Elephant Ear—same as gobo.
Hang an Ear—An order to place an elephant ear or gobo on a klieg light.

Strike—To dismantle a setting.
Dress—To furnish a setting.

Props—Materials with which setting are furnished, or articles used in a scene; anything from a pin-cushion to an elephant.

Shake 'em—An order given operators handling the electrical switches on a set to quickly switch the lights off or on.

Lot—Any place in a studio outside the executive offices, laboratories, wardrobe department, etc.

Flat-Light—A light which strikes directly into the object or person being photographed and gives no shadows.

Flatlight Baby—An actor whose face is so lined that only a flat-

light will lessen the appearance of age.

Dailies—Result of a day's filming which are viewed by the director, cameraman and leading players after the day's work.

Rushes—Same as dailies.

Trims—Portions of a film production eliminated in the cutting room.

Cutting-Room Face—Term applied to actress' face which must be photographed several times to get a good close-up.

Muff—Beard.

Blood Pockets—Artificial wounds to permit the "blood" to drip forth.

Oke—Director's expression announcing scene has been filmed to his liking.

Set 'em up—An order to place and focus the cameras.

Wrap 'em up—An order to dismantle and pack the cameras.
Tape—Film.
Mystery Box—Motion-picture camera.
Iron Peddler—electrician.
Hungry—An electrician.
Grip—A carpenter.

NEW REVENUE BILL SAVES CAR OWNERS MUCH IN AUTO TAX

When President Coolidge signed the new revenue bill making a total cut in all taxes of $387,000,000 annually, he saved motorists $30,400,000 or 21 per cent in excise taxes.

These cuts are repeal of 2 3/4 per cent tax on tires, parts and accessories, $25,000,000; repeal of 3 per cent tax on trucks, $9,000,000, and reduction of 5 per cent on passenger automobiles to 3 per cent, $46,400,000.

Repeat provisions take effect immediately, but the 2 per cent reduction on passenger cars will not become effective before April.

Attention of automobile dealers is called to provisions of the revenue act of 1926 by Collector of Internal Revenue Charles M. Dean, Cincinnati, relative to the refund of two per cent on passenger autos, chassis and bodies held by the dealer and intended for sale on March 28, 1926. Those intended for sale prior to March 28 shall be inventoried prior to this date.

HAMILTON HEARD BY OHIO SOCIETY

R. Hayes Hamilton, Xenia lecturer, who is official lecturer for the California Mission Play at San Gabriel and is now in Pasadena, acted as toastmaster at the eighteenth annual banquet of the Pasadena Ohio Society, at the Hotel Maryland, Pasadena, March 4.

Former Ohio residents compose the society and Mr. Hamilton, as toastmaster, acted as representative from their native state. He spoke of the origin and early history of Ohio, the legend concerning the name "Buckeye State" and told of its present greatness. He compared Ohio's Indian mounds with the Missions of California in historical interest.

ARREST IMMINENT IN TROY MURDER

Sweden Adamant On Stand Against En-
largement

By United Press.
GENEVA, March 12.—Only
a thread of hope exists today
that Germany may immediately
become a member of the League of Nations with a permanent seat on the council.
Geneva is ready, however,
for a final effort to patch together an agreement which would permit consummation of the Locarno work toward European peace and security.

If that effort fails, Europe's most
ambitious effort to secure herself
against herself would fail, or at least the league would adjourn
the German and other candidacies
for several weeks to permit tempers
to cool and attitudes to alter.

Several socialist delegates to the
league today telegraphed Premier Hindler of Sweden urging that
Sweden abandon her opposition
to enlargement of the league council.

Foreign Minister Uden of Sweden was the target of arguments
almost all of last night as various
mediators sought him to turn from
his intention to vote the election
of any nation but Germany to
council membership at this time.
Uden remained firm. Chancellor
Luther and Foreign Minister
Stressemann of Germany likewise
were unmoved by pleas that they
promise in advance to approve the enlargement of the council.

The negotiators of Locarno met
again today in the apartments of
Sir Austen Chamberlain but it is
admitted the solution of the coun-
them.

About the only hope today was
based on the remote possibility
that Spain and Brazil might accept
some formula to postponement of
their candidacies to permanent
council membership.

Failing this, adjournment of the council matter may be necessary
to avoid an irrevocable rupture,
within the league.

GENERAL IS FACING SOCIAL OSTRACISM

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Mar. 12.—On
the defensive and facing threats
of social ostracism, General Smedley Butler, returned to his duties
in San Diego today as commandant of the Marine post.

The General denied he violated
the hospitality of his retiring predecessor and host, Col. Alexander
Williams, by accusing the latter
of drunkenness following a party
in Butler's honor.

"I just did my duty according
case is similar to hundreds that
have occurred in the past."

"The unfortunate incident which
caused my action took place in a
public hotel when I was not a

POSTPONE REPORT OF GRAND JURY PROBE

CLEVELAND, Mar. 12.—The first
report of the federal grand jury on
the huge alcohol frauds, centering in the Superior Industrial Alcohol Co., of Cleveland, has been
postponed from today to Saturday.
building here.

District Attorney A. E. Bernstein
and his assistant, Miles E. Evans,
who is due to return here from Cincinnati, today. Bernstein and
Evans with special intelligence
bureau agent George Golding, say
they have asked about 125 indict-
ments in the alcohol case.

MOUNT GILEAD WILL LOSE RAIL SERVICE

service, according to an order issued by the Utilities Commission, authorizing the railroad to abandon train service into Mt. Gilead, after giving thirty-days notice.

The only railroad coming into the Morrow County seat will be the Eastern Division of the Toledo and Ohio Central, under
New York Central management.
The Big Four, heretofore had been coming into Mt. Gilead since 1880.

DAYTON, O., March 12.—
The bodies of Mrs. Lulu Taylor, 34, a waitress and Archie Childers, 54, believed a rejected suitor were found in the woman's apartment here today.

Mrs. Taylor had been shot to death. A bullet had penetrated Childers' head. Childers clutched a revolver.

The bodies were found by Mrs. Taylor's two young sons, when they awakened. Neighbors were summoned. They called the police.

By United Press

ALPENA, Mich., March 12.

—Completely reversing themselves, James and Leonard
Lyons, youthful Havana, Ohio,
gunmen, today refused to re-
turn to Ohio voluntarily, to
answer for the murder of Frank
McGrath, American railway
express company detective, shot to death when he sought
to arrest the boys at Havana.
The refusal of the boys to

return, in the face of their
previous decision to return
voluntarily, grew out of their
fear of death in the electric
chair, Sheriff Gregory, who
came here from Norwalk, Ohio,
for the brothers, told the United Press. Gregory and W. S.
McKellip, an agent for the ex-
left for Lansing, the state capital, to obtain Governor A. C.
Groesbeck's signature to ex-
tradition papers.

When the brother's previously signified their willingness to return, Gregory neglected to obtain the Governor's signature, believing the
faith.

Police Chief Douglas Mc-Kenzie, who was shot and
wounded by James when he
attempted to arrest the boys,
was believed out of danger to-
day. James also has confessed
he killed McGrath and has ex-
onerated Leonard of any blame,
police declared.

TARIFF COMMISSION MEMBERS CALLED BEFORE SENATE PROBES

Commission To Increase Tariff, Is
Said

WASHINGTON, Mar. 12.—Six
members of the United States tariff commission will be called before the Senate today to investigate a charge that they used influence to increase the tariff.

The entire commission will be
witnesses in the far-reaching inquiry into the issue upon which

Republicans and Democrats ex-
pect to fight out the November
congressional elections.

Vice President Dawes will appear before the Senate to conduct the investigation today or tomorrow after a conference with Republican and Democratic leaders.
Some Democrats want Senator
Thomas J. Walsh, Democrat, Mon-
tana, who conducted the Teapot
Dome oil scandals investigation
named to the body of inquiry, so
he can conduct the investigation
from the Democratic angle.

Republican leaders have been
unable so far to agree on their
candidates, since charges also
have been made against Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, who nominally would be
named as chairman of this committee.

At various times charges have
been made in connection with the
offer made by Mr. Coolidge to ap-
point David Lewis, Maryland
Democrat, to the commission if
he would give Mr. Coolidge a blanket resignation, effective at
any time.

INSANE MAN STAGES FIGHT WITH POLICE BEFORE BEING SHOT

After Reign Of Terror

By United Press
TOLEDO, Mar. 12.—After
barricading himself in a
house here, Steve Lashley, 71, said to have gone hopelessly insane, staged a two hour
gun battle with police early
today before he was shot and
captured.

Lashley began his rampage
shortly after midnight, according
to police, first threatening room-
ers in the house and later pur-
children.

The woman and the children
managed to lock themselves in a
room, Lashley apparently determined to kill them, fired through
the door.

Police were summoned but
when they attempted to gain
entrance to the house, found Lashley in command. He fired
upon them as they advanced.

Repulsed by the man's fire, police withdrew to a distance, held
a conference, then surrounded the
house. They advanced steadily,
but two hours elapsed before one
of them shot Lashley, enabling
them to capture him.

OLD-TIME FIDDLER TEMPERAMENTAL

MARYSVILLE, O., Mar. 12.

—(UP)—Suddenly acquired
"artistic temperament" has
taken an important part in the
meteoric rise of Odin G.
Harper, of Jackson Township, Ohio's champion old-
time fiddler.

Harper, who won the state
championship at Cleveland,
has received innumerable offers to play at country
dances for the price he used to receive when he was merely a "fiddler." He was advised by his manager to reject the offers and angle for
higher pay in vaudeville
work. Booking was obtained
for him this month in Columbus.

But the contract called for
"only" $250 a week and Har-
per has decided that he ought
to receive $1,000 a week, the
same pay being given Nellie Dunham, Vermont fiddler
brought into prominence by Henry Ford.

Harper is planning to get a
new manager and demand
pay which he feels an "artist"
should receive.

Wets and Drys Start
New Moves As Issue

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Prohibition may become a real national issue by the time of the 1928 presidential elections.
But, according to wet and dry
leaders in congress interviewed by
the United Press today, there is
no possibility that the fall senatorial and congressional elections
will be fought on that issue except
in local instances.

In Illinois, the issue arises in the
senatorial fight since George Brennan, Democrat, is running on a
wet platform. In Pennsylvania, it
will undoubtedly play a part in the
coming primaries since William S.
Vare is expected to run as an
avowed wet for the Republican senatorial nomination.

That the political situation now
in the trail of much agitation
throughout the country by news-
paper polls, registering heavy wet
sentiment, but condemned by drys
as inaccurate barometers.

Meanwhile, in the national campaign against Volstead violations,
two developments came to the fore-
namely:

1.—Plans were made for increasing the border patrol strength to
better compete with rum smugglers.

2.—Prohibition department let it
be known it was not happy over
dry administrators' achievements
in Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, District of Columbia, North and South Carolina and Georgia, and it suggested some
heads might fall if the remaining
month of trial for new administrators did not produce better results.

On the other hand the wets started two important moves. These are:

1.—The wet bloc in the house organized a "vigilance committee,"
of about nine members with orders
to keep a constant "patrol" force
on duty on the floor so wet propaganda can be scattered in speeches
virtually daily.

2.—The same bloc devised a
"publicity" scheme whereby
through introduction of novel bills,
newspapers would be compelled to
print news of the wets drive.

There was no mistaking the happiness of wets in congress over the
newspaper polls.

The impression was left that it
was largely a "courtesy call" that
had been arranged, but the appointment caused considerable
talk here in the light of renewed
wet-dry fighting.

NEW YORK, Mar. 12.—General Smedley Butler made at
least a social error, Emily
Post author of recognized
authority on etiquette believes.

In society when a host
serves cocktails and it isn't
the guest's place to stand up,
say "good night" and leave.
Seldom is it proper to have
your host arrested, according
to Miss Post.

"There is a sacred relationship between the guest and
the host," the etiquette authority told the United Press.

"In such a case the guest
should show his disapproval
by leaving."

"However, the otherwise
perfectly outrageous conduct of General Butler was excused by the fact that he was
a superior officer and military
duties outweighed those of the
social world."

in the case was expected by
those in close touch.

Jacob Nesbitt, husband of the
slain woman, was taken to the Nesbitt home this afternoon and the stage was set for clearing away
of clouds surrounding the case
since it started the country three
weeks ago.

twenty-four hours. Officials prom-

mitted today that the crucial point
of the probe had been reached.

portant by the investigators. Statements were taken from Mr. Brown
more than a week ago when au-

they were guests there, twenty-

DOUBLE EDUCATION STANDARD RAPPED AT BOARD MEETING

Criticism of a double standard of education, one for city and another for the country, featured address of H. C. Aultman, county school superintendent, at the annual meeting of boards of education of the county, in assembly room, Court House, Wednesday.

Practice of parents to leave the important matter of religious education of their children to school instructors was rapped by Charles Cline, Bowersville, in a talk featuring discussion of the topic of religious education. He said that no board of education or parent-teacher association has a right to demand of the teacher what is not being done in the home for the child, by way of religious training. Horace Ankeney, Beaver Creek Twp., in a talk along this line, made a plea for the return of the teaching of substantial things of life in the home.

Educators decided that religious training in the school cannot be made uniform and should be left to the community. Each rural school in Greene County has a copy of the Ten Commandments framed and hung on the wall. Maintenance of high standards of teachers in Greene County was the topic of several speakers. This county has the second highest standard for teachers of any county in Ohio.

Superintendent Aultman pointed out that half the county is centralized. There are ten village and rural high schools with 800 students and 4,700 pupils attending high and grade schools.

Interest in the Greene County Library among people of the county was urged by Miss Jean B. Elwell, Mrs. E. R. Bryant and Miss Bertha Trebein of the library board and W. B. Bryson, president of the Greene County Farm Bureau. Mrs. Bryant gave details of an essay contest which the board will inaugurate among students of the county.

Mrs. Ola P. Gunkle of the state auditing department explained the new budget law.

The Theatre

R. D. MacLean is now playing the part of Fray Junipero Serra, in the "Mission Play," at San Gabriel, Calif., now in its fifteenth year.

People who have seen the play with Frederick Warde in the eading role will probably never forget the interpretation this fine old monarch of the stage, brought to the part of the founder of the Mission.

Warde was succeeded by Monroe which settings are permanently arranged on a revolving stage.

Saulsbury, who was drafted from the films and MacLean, who now holds the part, brings it none of the interesting background of his predecessors. John Stephen McGroarty, the California poet, wrote the Mission Play, staged it and directs the company.

And by the way, R. Hayes Hamilton, Xenia, travelogue lecturer, is lecturer for the play, a position he has held a number of years. The play began its fifteenth year February 7 and performances are given every afternoon except Monday and on Wednesday and Saturday evenings. It now occupies the Mission Playhouse, a vast theater, in

Act 1 is of the founding of the Missions, the scene laid on the shores of the Bay of San Diego and the time the year 1769. Act 2 is of the Missions in their glory, the place of the Mission of San Carlos de Carmel, near Monterey, Calif., and the time 1784. Act 3 is the Missions in ruins, and the scene is the ruined Mission of San Juan Capistrano, the time, 1847. A large cast presents the play.

Motion picture stars who have suffered from "swelled head" are the subject of an interesting article by Gladys Hall, in the recent issue of the "Movie" Magazine.

"Swelled head" is commonly supposed to afflict its victims with these symptoms—Ritziness, high hatness, snobishness," says Miss Hall. "It doesn't make a particle of difference how you describe stars with this malady. The only thing that saves them is a speedy recovery. No one has ever been great enough to survive the inferior pictures that result," she continues.

Pola Negri had an attack when she first arrived upon these democratic shores. Gloria Swanson may have contracted it. Her last pictures have not been up to scratch. That is a symptom.

Valentino's attack of "swelled head" wasn't helped any by the fact that his "medical advisors" were not the wisest, according to Miss Hall. It attacked Glenn Hunter with all fourfangs. Glenn was very young, he had had a hard time. Success had come quickly.

Nazimova was a drastic case. A few years ago there was no more brilliant artist on our horizon.

"The malady strikes deep roots.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

MARY WAITE, a stenographer, has a misunderstanding with STEWART HOWE, whom she loves, because she has accepted the attention of an older man, PAT HAMILTON, who is a prominent politician. Mary finds that Hamilton's interest in her is the wrong kind, and runs away from him one evening when they are dining together. Soon afterward she loses her position, and gets another with STANLEY BLAKE, who has just gone into business for himself. She meets CELIA STEWART, and together they set up housekeeping in two rooms. Celia meets Blake, and flirts with him. Celia some time later receives a beautiful Chinese lounging suit, Mary finds a card that has come with it, and reads it as she picks it off the floor.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

XXIII—UNWELCOME REVELATIONS

MARY was frightfully upset by Celia's rage. Of course, she shouldn't have read that card—but even if she had meant to read it, she could have excused herself because it was on the floor with scraps of paper that had missed the waste basket, that evidently were meant to be thrown away. Celia had said such dreadful things, had accused her of prying into private matters, of being a spy, of being jealous—accusations that Mary couldn't understand. Why in the world should she be jealous of Celia, she asked herself. And what would she say for?

As she sat by the bedroom window, staring at the brick wall of the house next door, she asked herself why Celia hadn't just come out and told her that that Chinese lounging suit was a gift from her brother. It would have been simple enough. Unless—well, evidently her brother hadn't given it to her.

Celia came in later, and began changing her clothes. When she had finished she came stiffly over to Mary.

"Since we have to live together, we might as well be on good terms," she said. "I'll forgive you, but next time you see cards with writing on—"

"Oh Celia, I didn't mean to read it," Mary protested. "And when I did, I just thought probably when your brother sent you that suit he wrote on that card—"

"Oh—why—" Celia looked as if she had heard good news. After a moment she patted Mary on the shoulder, gently.

"That's exactly what did happen," she exclaimed. "He'd been horrid about not writing, and he knew I wanted one of those suits, so he sent me that suit I had on last night, and asked me to forgive him. I'm sorry I was so horrid, but you see, I'm used to living with just my brother and the servants—I didn't realize—"

"Queer, how happy she was all of a sudden!"

"I'm going out—have an engagement for the afternoon," she told Mary, turning to go. "I don't know when I'll be in—not till late, probably. I'm sorry, Mary, about my shabby temper." And she smiled sweetly and slammed the door behind her.

Mary sat there in the window, trying hard to be convinced. Some how, Celia was so funny, the way she acted about things. Why hadn't she said that about her brother in the first place—if it were true!

"I'm a suspicious cat!" she told herself. But she couldn't help it if she was. Celia wasn't telling the truth about that suit—anyone could see that.

"Well, I'm not responsible for her; she doesn't have to tell me where she gets things," Mary went on, rising at last and going back to the living-room. "She needn't tell me who gave it to her if she doesn't want to."

It had begun to rain, a hard, driving rain. Mary settled down in the chair with a library book, glad that she need not go out. She had barely opened her book when the telephone bell rang on the first floor, and a few moments later came the hanging on the hall radiator that meant the call was for her or Celia. Mary ran down the stairs.

The landlady had vanished, and Mary went to the phone. "Hello," she called. "A man's voice answered. It was Stanley Blake."

"Hello—Celia?" it said. "Mary's heart felt as if it had suddenly turned to ice. Celia! Calling Celia that way, on Sunday afternoon!"

She did not speak, and he spoke again.

"Celia? This is Stan. Listen, Cee, it's pouring cats and dogs out here, and storming even harder in the house than out. My wife's in a tantrum—won't believe I have business in town—"

Mary hung up the receiver and went slowly up the stairs, feeling almost as if she had stood at the death bed of someone dear to her. Celia and Stanley Blake! It didn't seem possible.

Her thoughts went back to that night when they had met there at the house, the night he had come home to do some work with Mary because the office was closed. Celia had been so awfully nice to him—had flirted with him, really flirted for that matter. And the things she'd said after he went—"that man's trying to have a lot of money some day," and "What's a wife between friends?"

Mary didn't want to think along that line any further, but she might as well have tried to stop a runaway locomotive as to stop thinking about Celia and Stanley Blake. That Chinese suit—and the card in his writing, saying, "Wear it and forgive me"—and the way Celia had looked when she came in last night—probably she'd quarreled with him, and he'd taken that way of making up with her.

HIDEOUS, unmistakable facts. Mary was too bright a girl not to realize them for what they were. She tried to be kind, tried to remind herself that circumstantial evidence wasn't worth anything, but the very tone of Stanley's voice when he thought he was talking to Celia on the phone spoke louder than anything else against him.

And Celia's panic over the card—and Mary's explanation, that she had grabbed at so suddenly—oh, it all fitted together into a terrible pattern.

"I won't believe it—I won't!" Mary told herself. She put on her hat and coat and started out through the rain to her aunt's house, far across the city. She'd go out there and see people who didn't do such things.

It was a long ride, and a tiresome one. She was glad to reach the apartment-house at last. But none of the family was at home. Mary was just wondering what to do when she thought of Hilda Lewis, who lived upstairs. She could run up and see Hilda.

But Hilda was just getting ready to go out herself. "Oh Mary, I'm so glad you're here," she cried. "I'm going out, and I've nobody to leave with Junior. Jim's out of town. Do be a darling and stay with the baby, won't you?"

Mary said she would, and Hilda talked on, as she combed her hair and rouged her cheeks. "At old friend of yours—none other than Pat Hamilton, my child!"

Pat Hamilton. Mary wished with all her heart that she hadn't come.

Sayre's Drug Store

Important to Chicken Raisers!

A person CAN make money in Chickens if they ABSOLUTELY REFUSE TO EXPERIMENT. Geo. H. Lee, for some 40 years, has done all the experimenting necessary and his line of PREVENTIVES and Remedies, plus his BOOK, makes the greenest amateur a SUCCESS from the START! We honestly believe this. We carry this equipment—ALL of it, and we believe you get the facts about Geo. H. Lee, what he has to say—even if you intend raising only a FEW chickens this year!

Nearly as Popular As Candy Crabs!

It's this new Morse Home Style package at 69c, we just got in! The Chocolate coverings are crispy, dark and full flavored. The centers are creamy or hard or flaky in JUST THE WAY you expect a $1.50 Candy to be! Each piece is individually wrapped too. The Candy Crabs are going to have some REAL competition!

Coughing as a Fine Art!

It has never been really developed to any great degree, the trouble being that persons who allowed a cough to "hang on" long enuf to really get expert didn't LIVE LONG ENUF to become FAMOUS! Which fact seems a good reason for you to come right in here NOW and get at least ONE good Cough Remedy for your Medicine Chest!

I Was Told To Make This FULLA "PUNCH!"

Emmett Hardy, one of the boys here in the store, saw me trying to write this weekly message and he pipes up "Maker fulla pep this week, Mr. Sayre; Make 'em sit up and take notice! Pack 'em in tight here so I can practice waiting on four people at once!"

So now that you readers understand how Emmett feels about it, why—I'd do my doggondest to put some punch into this advertisement.

If I told you about the SERVICE we work so hard to give, would THAT carry a PUNCH? Or maybe I'd better tell you what CARE we exercise in selecting the BEST of everything before we offer it to you folks! How's THAT for PUNCH?

Would the fact that we BACK UP every article sold in this store with OUR GUARANTEE make you hustle in here and snap at the cash register—trying to poke money into it?

Darned if it isn't HARD to put PUNCH in talk like this—Maybe I'd better quit trying to get so heavy and just leave OUT THE PUNCH and say very gravely: "We'd like your trade and we're prepared to go to all decent lengths not only to GET it but to KEEP it."

DOC. SAYRE.

Shorty Says:—

While on the subject of PUNCH wotta you folks out front think of the VINEGAR idea! Did you notice how the Congressmen got all excited and insisted to a man that the recipe for making it into Alcohol be put in THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORDS! Can't tell me that the Congressional Records would be "dry reading" Not from NOW ON anyway! And, gosh what a hop the price of Vinegar would take! Yea, boy! Probably be a crime to grow apples after this.

"Mystikum"

Many women will NOT like this new Perfume. Certainly its very, very different and we bought rather timidly. Might be a good idea to ask for a dash of it just to see whether it pleases you or not. It's had an enormous sale in the EAST!

Just a Small Ad!

It's just a LITTLE too early to get excited about KODAKS and FILMS and FINISHING, so will drop the subject for a week or so!

They Sure Are Leaving Here!

In spite of the large number of Shaeffer's Life/Time Pens we have bought since November, we had to get in a new lot last week! And they're beauties too. The fact that they're UNBREAKABLE and are guaranteed for LIFE is what makes them so popular.

Police and Fountain News!

Said a Lemon Ice to a big Limeade:

"I wonder how this VINEGAR's made!"

From what I READ it packs a PUNCH

Much stronger than our Soda bunch!"

And the Limeade sadly shook its head:

"It looks that way from what I've read;

But you can't believe just ALL you hear—

So I don't think we've much to fear!"

NEW TRAFFIC ORDINANCE PASSED WITH THREE OTHERS ON THURSDAY

City Commission passed four ordinances including a measure revamping the old traffic ordinance with new provisions to regulate vehicular traffic, one regulating the closing time of pool rooms and billiard parlors, a third granting the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. authority to construct a switch track across Cincinnati Ave., and a fourth providing a fee of $1 shall be charged by the city for issuance of a license or permit, at the regular meeting Thursday night.

The four measures will become effective in thirty days from the date of passage. The new traffic ordinance combines all provisions of the old ordinance with additional sections providing for observance of the alternating automatic traffic control lights at Main and Detroit Sts., empowering the city manager to furnish police with tags to cite motorists into court for traffic violations, and a provision that police keep a record of all accidents witnessed or investigated. Commissioners also made provisions in the traffic ordinance for elimination of Market St., as a main thoroughfare in contrast with the former ordinance. Police orders will be authorized by which stop signs may be erected at designated intersections. State law made clear the signs must be erected at least 100 feet back of the main thoroughfare.

Under the new regulations, better traffic enforcement is assured, it is believed.

Second ordinance regulating billiard parlors, pool rooms and bowling alleys, provides these business places shall remain closed from 11 p. m. to 6 a. m. on week days except on Saturday when the closing time is 12 midnight to 6 a. m.

It also provides for removal of all screens, blinds or other obstructions which obscure a clear view of the interior by passersby on the street. This measure supercedes an old ordinance regulating saloons which provided for a 10 p. m. closing order.

Favorable action on the third ordinance, gives the Pennsylvania Railroad the right to construct and maintain a switch track on Cincinnati Avenue on the east side of the main tracks.

1,000,000
DECEMBER 16, 1925
1,500,000

On March 22, 1923, Buick celebrated the building of the millionth Buick. Approximately eighteen years were consumed in the accomplishment.

On December 16, 1925, Buick reached the million and a half mark. A million Buicks in eighteen years—the next half million in two years and nine months.

At the present time, public demand calls for more than 20,000 Buicks every month. This means the next half million in the hands of Buick owners, within two years.

These bare figures tell a graphic story of Buick's continuous advance in public regard. The great acceleration of demand, at the present time, speaks strongly of the increased value and desirability in the Better Buick.

Leadership belongs to Buick because a nation familiar with many motor cars has given it to Buick.

The American public wants "finer transportation at lower cost", and Buick provides it!

POVERTY DECREASES

GOVERNMENT statistics were unnecessary to show that poverty is rapidly decreasing in the United States. For a dozen years it has been apparent and the government now proves it on paper showing there are 78,000 persons in the Almshouse of the country this year compared with 84,000 in 1910.

What a contrast this nation provides with the others of the world. Throughout Europe the poorhouses, where they have them, are full to overflowing and millions more people are receiving unemployment pensions. England has a large almshouse population. Everywhere in Europe and Asia poverty is said to be increasing. Of course Africa, South America, Central America and the Orient have their history-old condition of poverty under which the lower classes, numbering into the millions of people, are periodically in need of government sustenance.

There are several explanations for the decline of poverty and public dependence in this country. First among them is that the American people are opposed to paternalism. Able-bodied men and women who do not work do not eat in the United States, unless they steal. Secondly, there is inculcated into the American people the desire to work and the ambition to be independent. Another is that the idler is abhorred by society.

POLAR EXPLORATION

FOUR different expeditions into the North Polar regions will be launched this year and it is probable a still greater number will set forth in 1927, making the top of the world the most explored part of the globe and showing that the many past explorations have but increased its fascination.

The Norwegian explorer, Martens, has already established a base on Franz Josef Land for a dash to the pole with automotive sledges and under French sponsorship.

Aeronautical expeditions into the land of ice are planned by Captain Roald Amundsen with Lincoln Ellsworth, Captain George H. Wilkins, and Australian, and Commander Byrd, of the United States Navy, who was with the Macmillan Arctic expedition last year.

Amundsen and Ellsworth failed to reach the pole last spring with two planes but will make a second attempt by air, this time using a semi-rigid dirigible of Italian construction. The expedition will probably "jump off" from Spitzbergen next month.

Point Barrow, Alaska, will be the base for the Detroit-Arctic Expedition of the Detroit Aviation Society and American Geographical Society under the command of Captain Wilkins. The object of this venture is to ascertain if land lies between Alaska and the pole, if no land is found, to make a non-stop flight over the pole to Spitzbergen.

Commander Byrd hopes to get within 400 miles of the North Pole with the Shipping Board's steamer Chantier and then make the final hop by plane. He wants to reach the pole and explore the surrounding regions.

Here are four enterprises which promise a whole year's supply of thrills and adventure for the on-looking public, which will await them with almost as great impatience and excitement as will the explorers themselves.

BUYING LIBERTY BONDS

SECRETARY MELLON, a few days ago, announced an offer to purchase Third Liberty Loan bonds to the amount of $100,000,000 directly from the owners. The advantage of this plan, it is pointed out, to government and seller, is that brokerage fees will be eliminated from the transaction.

These bonds, which mature in 1928, are now quoted slightly above 101 and doubtless the government will pay about the market price for them, since that would be the natural price for holders to fix in tendering their securities to the banks or bond dealers designated by the government as its agents. Payment, it is announced, will be made on March 23, after the first collection under the new income tax law.

That the government, in addition to meeting its maturing obligations, is able to cancel $100,000,000 of its indebtedness which does not mature for two years is evidence of the gratifying condition of the federal treasury, under the able supervision of Secretary Mellon.

It is because of the fact that President Coolidge has in his cabinet, at the head of the Treasury Department, a man of the ability of Secretary Mellon that the country is making the progress it is toward liquidating the World War debt, and keeping within the budget that is prescribed by the Budget Committee.

Of course considerable money is coming in from the foreign loans and this revenue will be largely increased as time goes on. The interest charges for which American taxpayers are responsible are being steadily cut down and, with reasonable public economy, the federal tax burden will become steadily lighter.

Attacks upon Secretary Mellon on one ground or another are rather frequent, but no one can consistently declare that he is not attending to his main job in a masterful manner.

Two living apartments on the second floor of the Graham building were ordered vacated and remodelled to accommodate the furniture department, it is announced.

MAKING OATMEAL BREAD

"Please tell me how to make oatmeal bread," writes a bride reader, "and please be sure to explain even the most ordinary process, for I don't know one thing about cooking. I am always so pleased when you give measurements of pans and tell how high things must rise in the pans, et cetera. It helps a beginner."

I am glad that my "just how" directions are found helpful by inexperienced housekeepers. Here is my way of making oatmeal bread, and I hope I shall be specific enough in my directions:

Oatmeal Bread: I take the largest yellow crockery bowl I own. To be exact, mine measures 12 inches in diameter across the top. Into this I put three cups of boiling-hot water, one cup of molasses, one tablespoon of salt and two cups of dry, uncooked oatmeal (the long-cooking kind, not the quickly prepared kind).

I let the bowl alone for two hours. For it takes about that length of time for the boiling water to cool to the tepid stage. And it must be at the tepid stage, before you add the yeast to it—otherwise it may scald the yeast and dissolve one cake of compressed

SIDELIGHTS ON Greene County History

COUNTY AUDITORS

Office of the county auditor was first associated with that of the county clerk and recorder, since the business of the office was not sufficiently remunerative to occupy the entire attention of one man.

John Paul, first auditor of Greene County, served until he moved away in 1809. Then Josiah Grover became clerk, auditor and recorder and served in this capacity until 1820 when the auditor's office was made a separate unit.

Peter Pelham became the first auditor of the county to devote his entire time to this branch of business.

Tenure of the office was three years before 1809, but was changed to two years after that date. Complete list of auditors since the organization of the county until the present time follows:

John Paul, 1803-1809; Josiah Grover, 1809-1820; Peter Pelham, 1820-1821; George Townsley, 1821-1829; William Richards, 1829-1837; T. Coke Wright, 1837-1855; James A. Scott, 1855-1857; Samuel T. Owens, 1857-1861; William C. M. Baker, 1861-1867; Andrew S. Frazer, 1867-1883; William R. Baker, 1883-1896; John H. McPherson, 1896-1902; William Dodds, 1902-1909; Walter L. Dean, 1909-1913; Amos E. MEMORY

I stopped before a shaft of marble tall.
"Rich men," thought I, "are favored after all,
In splendor and in luxury sleeps their clay."

From earth their memory does not pass away.
While round about the poor, "neath markers small,
Sleep in oblivion, seldom seen at all."

And then it seemed I heard the great man say:
"Envy me not this monument of stone,
Look to that modest grave across the way.
His memory by those simple flowers is shown,
Placed there by loving hands but yesterday.
Still come the living to his humble plot,

NEW THINGS

Not everybody can stand the new things of life, any more than he can stand sudden success.

But, as a matter of fact, it is the new things that keep life bubbling with interest. Not everyone can stand them, and yet not everyone lives. Many just drift along like the broken branches that go with the current of a stream.

We have heard about the new broom that sweeps so well. New things always have an attractiveness that old things do not. And yet we love the old things! There is a speculative interest about new things that is absent in old things. You meet a new friend. You think of all he will be to you; perhaps he carries about within him many of the dreams that you had for your last friend, but which are concealed in him and may come out in acquaintance and companionship.

Everyone loves the unexpected. We all like surprises. New things stimulate and arouse us to a higher pitch of enthusiasm.

But the best about new things is that we learn from them, add to our accumulated knowledge and broaden our horizon of thought along all lines.

I came across, the other day, this line: "The dull ache of the Every Day." The ache that so few are able to tell, to explain, to do away with. The ache that centres mostly in the heart, sacred, so difficult for anyone outside the one who has it to understand.

New things help out the one with this ache. A journey, strange and interesting people, contrasting environments, books, something out of the ordinary in some way always freshens and renews us all.

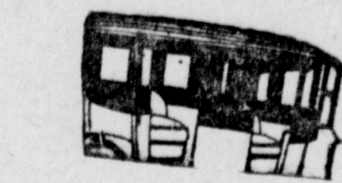

The greatest sermons are not preached in churches. You find them in life itself, as Richard King so well says.

We must keep going back and into ourselves in order to find out about ourselves.

MODISH MITZI—The Goofy Has A Will Of His Own By JAY V. JAY

The Goofy feels that it is time to exert his will—you know, the will that should be developed to its highest power—so he has decided not to see Mitzi. He is taking a last look at her picture before he turns it to the wall. It takes a great deal of will power.

The Goofy thinks he will go to all the places that Mitzi is not likely to be—the public library, for instance. But it just happened that Mitzi had been going to review some costume designs. The Goofy sees her in her new spring coat of charmeen, with printed silk blouse.

Mitzi is teasing the Goofy about where he's been lately, and won't he eat dinner with her. "Well, where are you eating?" questions the Goofy. It is absolutely not in his power—ever, anytime, to refuse Mitzi. He may have read 16 books on the subject but not one word but "yes" occurs to him.

The Goofy decides to buy a car—he won't see Mitzi in the showroom. But he does, for Mitzi has decided that Dad should buy a nice green car for spring. Green is so popular. Besides, she even wears the caps and the close-fitting hat to match it.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought relief in three weeks

That constipation need not strike fear upon your heart is proved by this letter from Mr. Thomas Henleiger:

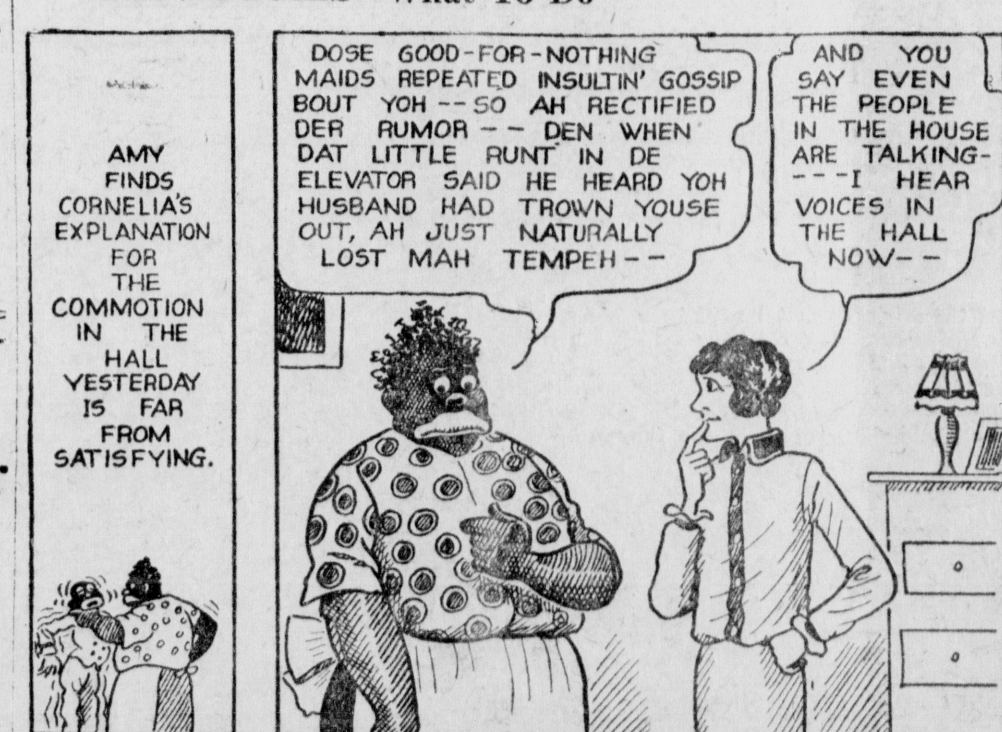

"I wish to write and tell you how much I prize your Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. For twenty-five years I sought relief from constipation without success. But now I have been using your ALL-BRAN for three weeks and I can truthfully say that I am entirely cured and feel like a new man."

THOMAS HENLEIGER, West Point, Mississippi.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL
AT THE AGE OF 93

Most men and women past fifty
must give to the bowels some occasional help else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to add weak eyes with to weak bowels. Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural
"regularity" — or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular gripes, sickens or upsets the sys-

Serious Talk!

This is the time—RIGHT NOW—to do a lot of real THINK-ING on Spring Farm work. The way you plan NOW, the decisions you reach NOW are going to show later in your BANK ACCOUNT when the harvests are in! For it IS A FACT that you "harvest" as you "till" and it costs just as much to harvest a poorly tilled acre as it does a properly tilled acre. What you GET from that acre is measured by how you treat it in the spring
—NOW! I'm talking you nothing you don't know already and my reasons for talking about it now is to HURRY your decisions ESPECIALLY ON THE TRACTOR QUESTION!

A McCormick-Deering TRACTOR with plow is NOT AN EX-PENSE. If you could hire a MAN at twice regular wages to do do FOUR TIMES the work, certainly you'd have that bird on your pay-roll sudden!

A Mc-D tractor earns you MORE than that—and the tractor won't QUIT in the middle of the season either!

However, what I started out to say was that I sure would like to have check up what you think you are going to need this spring and let either Beal or myself go over the list with you on price and delivery, or there's certainly going to be some rush a bit later on.

Yours very truly,
WM. B. MCALLISTER, Gen. Mgr.

The City of Xenia.

The Water and Service Department bought from us a new 1 ton International Harvester Truck last week for use here. We are very pleased at this gesture of confidence in this product
we represent and the bosoms of our Sales Department swell gently and fully at the distinction.

Mr. Ritenour, of Cedarville,
Was Asked a Question

And right below here is printed his ANSWER. It was such a concise, sensible and COMPLETE reply that we feel it is a darn sight BETTER advertisement than we could fligger out ourselves.

"RITENOUR'S EXCHANGE"
R. C. Ritenour, Prop.

Coal, Grain, Fords, High Grade Oils and Greases.
Cedarville, Ohio, 2-23-1926
The Greene County Hardware Co.,
Xenia, Ohio;
Gentlemen:

In reply to the question of why I bought an International Truck, I will briefly state that after careful investigation and consideration, I found these trucks were giving general satisfaction and long, inexpensive service. This, together with the fact that they are produced and backed up by a concern as reliable as the International Harvester Co., with its service system, places a prospective purchaser in a position to decide quickly what to buy.

Am much pleased with my truck and think I made the right decision when I decided on an International.

Very truly yours,
R. C. RITENOUR.

The Sutton Twins!

In spite of all efforts to corner one of em to get a little dope on the subject of Overlands, Willies-Knights and Studebaker nothing could be done. They claim that if these cars get any more popular than they are at present, it will be necessary to buy a couple new pens to write orders! And Sayre's just got in a new bunch of Schaeffer's Life Times.

Shorly

Mack instructed me to keep my lip quitta this ad
this week, as he says
Spring is a darn important time to farmers and that if I go to rarin' around and shootin off what he calls my "trap" it will interfere with "straight thinking". What I said to Mack and what he said back to me cannot be published here on acct. of Beeler, the ad man, refusing to allow such remarks to be put in the paper. I asked Beeler if I could tell you folks where I told Mack to go and Beeler wouldn't even allow That to be printed. Hutch and Beal gimme their sympathy, which is the only kind words

I've had for a week.

MOVIE STUDIOS DEVELOP OWN ARGOT WITH HUNDREDS OF COINED WORDS

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 11.—"Hey there, you angels, shift those ash-cans to the right!" "Switch those broads and get that baby off the prop-wagon over on this lens louse!" "Cut-get your gobos lined and hang an ear while we strike." Unless translated, the foregoing movie lingo means nothing to the layman. In the film studios, it is the common vernacular of the directors, engineering the making of a movie.

Like other professions, the film industry has evolved its own vocabulary. More than 300 words have been coined and come into general usage at the film plants. It would require a special dictionary to acquaint an inexperienced screen player with the lingo of the directors. Foreign film stars who come to Hollywood learn the studio slang before they learn English, and a test of a player's ability is partially determined by his capacity to understand and follow the director. Allan Dawn, veteran Paramount director, compiled the following a selected list of studio slang-words for the United Press.

Angels—electricians.

Ash-cans—special spotlights.

Broad—A twin-arc klieg light.

Baby—A small spotlight.

Prop-wagon—Cabinet, mounted on wheels, in which propman carries thousand-odd and ends of articles which may be called into use on a set.

Lens Louse—An actor who is always forcing his face into the camera lens.

Gobo—A black oblong composition board, with a hole in the center, hung on a klieg light to prevent light from directly reaching the camera lens.

Elephant Ear—same as gobo.

Hang an Ear—An order to place an elephant ear or gobo on a klieg light.

Strike—To dismantle a setting.

Dress—To furnish a setting.

Props—Materials with which setting are furnished, or articles used in a scene; anything from a pin-cushion to an elephant.

Shake 'em—An order given operators handling the electrical switches on a set to quickly switch the lights off or on.

Lot—Any place in a studio outside the executive offices, laboratories, wardrobe department, etc.

Flat-Light—A light which strikes directly into the object or person being photographed and gives no shadows.

Flatlight Baby—An actor whose face is so lined that only a flat-

light will lessen the appearance of age.

Dailies—Result of a day's filming which are viewed by the director, cameraman and leading players after the day's work.

Rushes—Same as dailies.

Trims—Portions of a film production eliminated in the cutting room.

Muff—Beard.

Blood Pockets—Artificial wounds to permit the "blood" to drip forth.

Oke—Director's expression announcing scene has been filmed to his liking.

Set 'em up—An order to place and focus the cameras.

Tape—Film.
Mystery Box—Motion-picture camera.
Iron Peddler—electrician.
Hungry—An electrician.
Grip—A carpenter.

NEW REVENUE BILL SAVES CAR OWNERS MUCH IN AUTO TAX

When President Coolidge signed the new revenue bill making a total cut in all taxes of $387,000,000 annually, he saved motorists $30,400,000 or 21 per cent in excise taxes.

These cuts are repeal of 2½ per cent tax on tires, parts and accessories, $25,000,000; repeal of 3 per cent tax on trucks, $9,000,000, and reduction of 5 per cent on passenger automobiles to 3 per cent, $46,400,000. Repeal provisions take effect immediately, but the 2 per cent reduction on passenger cars will not become effective before April. Attention of automobile dealers is called to provisions of the revenue act of 1926 by Collector of Internal Revenue Charles M. Dean, Cincinnati, relative to the refund of two per cent on passenger autos, chassis and bodies held by the dealer and intended for sale on March 28, 1926. Those intended for sale prior to March 28 shall be inventoried prior to this date.

HAMILTON HEARD BY OHIO SOCIETY

R. Hayes Hamilton, Xenia lecturer, who is official lecturer for the California Mission Play at San Gabriel and is now in Pasadena, acted as toastmaster at the eighteenth annual banquet of the Pasadena Ohio Society, at the Hotel Maryland, Pasadena, March 4.

Former Ohio residents compose the society and Mr. Hamilton, as toastmaster, acted as representative from their native state. He spoke of the origin and early history of Ohio, the legend concerning the name "Buckeye State" and told of its present greatness. He compared Ohio's Indian mounds with the Missions of California in historical interest.

THE GIRL SCOUTS

and the Campfire Girls are two national organizations working side by side in the cause of healthy, happy, intelligent womanhood; training the minds of eager girls for greater service, training their bodies for the destiny that shall be theirs. All honor to them!

Wise mothers of girls in their early teens urge them frankly to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Alice Louthan, Route 2, Charleston, Ill., says, "I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to other mothers with girls who are not as strong as they should be."—Adv.

Here are some superior features of the Kokomo Pioneer Fence.

99 1/2% pure zinc galvanizing; the exclusive knot that tightens under strain; the closed line wires that are live wires when stretched properly and that will absorb all expansion and contraction.

The knot with which the stays are fastened to the line wires puts Kokomo Pioneer Fence in a class by itself. Stays will not—CAN NOT—slip on the line wires, for the reason that the HARDER THE STRAIN, THE TIGHTER THE LOCK! Pressure and hard use merely tighten it.

It's in the knot, you see—a knot that assures you that Kokomo Pioneer Fence will not sag and get out of shape throughout its long life. For farm and poultry uses, it can't be equalled.
